Sticky Knowledge

Fire fighters can help people and put out fires. They drive a big red truck and wear special protective clothes and helmets to keep them safe.

Police officers help people by keeping them safe. They wear a dark blue uniform and drive a police car or van. Police officers may also ride a horse through big crowds to keep people safe.

Paramedics look after us when we are hurt. They are able to treat us before we go to the hospital. They wear a green uniform and drive a green and yellow ambulance van.

If there is an emergency, police officers, fire fighters and paramedics use loud sirens which tell people they are coming.
